Nina Allan – A Son of the Rock -- Jack Deighton

Recommended by an author in a Guardian article if I remember correctly, and annoyingly the Barbican Library only has the third and final part of this trilogy on its bookshelves... so I bought all three via AbeBooks after I ' d sat and read the opening chapter in a second hand bookshop on a visit to Sue in Edinburgh aeons ago.

Allan Aldiss has written many stories about life in make-believe harems. However, this one is different. It is about life in a real harem: the harem of Abdul the Dammed, almost the last of the Sultans of Turkey, who about a hundred years ago was the all-powerful Ruler of the still vast Ottoman Empire.

Another book in the popular Barbary series. This one has a contemporary setting. A number of young women are kidnapped on the instructions of a handsome and wealthy young Sheik.

Suki is a genalt - an artificial girl, impossibly beautiful, created to order. Legally she is simply property, without rights, utterly at the mercy of her owner. And he has no mercy. He had her made to rebel against being told what to do, and to loathe sex with men. She is the perfect suffering toy for a cruel sadist. Her owner relishes her screams and her tears as he breaks her spirit with punishment, forcing her to beg him to have her. Suki manages to escape this hell, but the world outside is no better. She falls into the hand of criminals whose skill at inflicting pain far exceeds that of her original owner. Sold on the black market, she passes from one owner to another. And there are other forces out in the world with yet more sinister plans for her.

A young Englishwoman, Diana Carstairs, goes out to the Central American police state of Costa Negra to reclaim her inheritance, only to be arrested on trumped-up charges of drug smuggling. Sentenced to years of harsh imprisonment, she is acquired as an indentured servant by the man she had sought to supplant, the harsh owner of the remote plantation. Her owner is a keen breeder and trainer of two and four legged ponies and Diana finds herself being put through her paces!

This is the story of a young Englishwoman, Diana Carstairs, who goes out to the Central American police state of Costa Negra to reclaim her inheritance only to be arrested on trumped-up charges of drug smuggling. Sentenced to years of harsh imprisonment, she is acquired as an indentured servant, a virtual slave, by the man she had sought to supplant, the harsh owner of the remote plantation. In this stand-alone sequel her troubles become worse as she is treated as a brood mare and subjected to forced breeding.

War is humanity ' s only hope. “ Aldiss ' dark vision of collapsing society and withering earth is poignant and brutal . . . [a] richly detailed world ” (Science Fiction Ruminations). In a future where the Earth has been savaged by overpopulation and over farming, robots are considered more valuable than humans and sand must be altered to create artificially fertile soil. Ex convict Knowle Noland, the hallucinating sea captain of the Trieste Star, finds himself wrapped up in a plot to incite a global war that will wipe out millions. War, it seems, is the only way to drastically reduce the population and create a better world for those who survive.
