Colonial genocide and reparations claims in the 21st ...

The Herero and Nama genocide perpetrated by the German colonial authorities, under the command of General Von Trotha has left a controversial legacy in Namibia. It was during the period of 1904-07 when an estimated 80 percent of Hereros and 50 percent of Namias perished in their quest to reclaim their lands from German settlers. Due to the political situation of that period before Namibia"s independence in 1990, little was said about the genocide until the descendants of the genocide ...

Reparations Demand Expanding Among African People ...

All of the colonial, neo-colonial and imperialist states charged with human rights violations, genocide and other crimes against the people have either rejected the claims made against them or have provided inadequate responses. The U.S. has never even apologized for the centuries of enslavement and national oppression of African people.
